CAPT. JAMES PARKER EXAMINING takes exception to the clause in the RECORDS IN WASHINGTON.

A Remarkable Person Who Was First Takes as a Joke, and Who Soon Became Such a Nuisance That Steps Were Taken by Admiral Crowninshield to Repress Him.

WASHINGTON, July 31.-The most remarkable person who has put in an appearance in Washington during the present heated term is Capt. James Parker of Perth Amboy, N. J. He brought with him a from Admiral Schley accrediting him to the Secretary of the Navy as the Admiral's assistant counsel in the preparation of his case before the board of inquiry that will meet on Sept. 12. Capt. Parker is as remarkable in his personal appearance as in his speech, and his conduct since he arrived in Washington has given rise to much gossip as to the reason for employment by Admiral Schley.

Capt. Parker is a man of medium size and with the thermometer at 95 degrees wears a heavy black cloth suit, with a long frock coat, blue shirt, white lawn tie and an ancient-looking silk hat, which is tipped back on his sparsely-haired head at an angle of 45 degrees.

When he first appeared at the Navy Department yesterday he was taken as a joke and the officials were inclined to look pon the letter from Admiral Schley, appointing him as assistant counsel, as a forgery; but it now appears that the letter is genuine, and that Capt. Parker is no joke at all. He is a nuisance, however, and such a flagrant one that Acting Secretary of the Navy Admiral Crowninshield was compelled to-day to take steps to repress him. In doing this the Admiral had no desire whatever to hamper in any way the work of Admiral Schley in preparing for his defence before the board of inquiry, but is governed altogether by his duty to the

With all due formality and politeness Capt. Parker was yesterday put in possession of Secretary Long's private office, of town, and every facility was extended him for examining the papers and records of the Department. He hung his frock coat on a chair, took off his collar and cravat. turned on the electric fan and began to talk. He has been talking ever since.

He said yesterday that he had no doubt he would be compelled to hire a Gatling gun to drive away the newspaper reporters. and this morning two Gatling guns would and this morning two Gatling guns would have been necessary had the Captain really desired to be alone, for callers came in upon him by the score. His fame had quickly spread throughout the city and everybody wanted to see him. So Secretary Long's private office was turned into a public reception room. His visitors were announced to him by Lieut. Snyder, who had been detailed at the Navy Department to act as Secretary Long's private secretary, and the office of the Secretary of the Navy became for the time the office of tary, and the office of the Secretary of the Navy became for the time the office of Capt. Parker, as assistant counsel for Admiral Schley. Department supplies, such as pens, ink and paper, were laid before him, and messengers stood ready to go for documents as needed by the learned counsel. To-day a change was ordered by Admiral Crowninshield.

"If Admiral Schley's counsel wants to receive visitors he must receive them somewhere else," said Admiral Crowninshield.
"The Navy Department cannot allow him to make both an office and recention room.

out of Secretary Long's private office. He was allowed to go in there so that he could have every opportunity to examine the records and be within easy access of the papers he desired. I cannot permit the Government messengers to act as mes sengers for Capt. Parker and run to him with a card every time somebody wants to see him."

To all who ask Capt. Parker for some of the leading points in his life, he would say airly, that to undertake to furnish such details would be to rewrite the history of his country. He did admit, however, that he was born in Ohio and now lives in New Jersey, and had been appointed assistant counsel to Admiral Schley for the new good research that he is and has been sistant counsel to Admiral Schley for the very good reason that he is and has been his closest personal friend, and that he has written and printed and distributed at his own expense 250 copies of a pamphlet on the Schley case that leaves nothing more to be said. It covers the case completely and will be the Admiral's defence before the court. The Captain seemed surprised and hurt when one of his callers dropped an intimation that there was no copy of the pamphlet on file in the Navy Department and that the Washington public seemed ignorant of its existence. public seemed ignorant of its existence.

Capt. Parker is an old sailor himself, so he says, having had some kind of a commission in 1846, under which he served for mission in 1846, under which he served for ten years, then resigned, reëntered the navy in 1861 and resigned again in 1866 because he wanted another promotion and did not get it. Although Capt. Par-ker is designated as assistant counsel for Admiral Schley, it cannot be learned who the chief counsel is or whether he has been appointed. Capt. Parker says he has not been, and the Navy Department has no in-formation on this point. formation on this point.

THE SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY. Secretary Long Says He Hopes Admiral Kim berly Will Be Able to Serve.

HINGHAM, Mass., July 31 .- Secretary of the Navy John D. Long arrived at his home here last night and will rest quietly until he goes to his birthplace, Bucksport, Me., for his annual visit and to deliver an address before the Custard Pie Association, of which he is a member. In an interview to-day the Secretary said that he did not know whether Admiral Kimberly would know whether Admiral Kimberly would be excused from service on the Court of Inquiry appointed to hear the Sampson-Schley matter.

"I had hoped," he continued, "that the Admiral would be able to serve, for he would be a valuable man. However, there are other available men on the retired list, and if Admiral Kimberly is excused because of the state of his health, a good selection will doubtless be made to supply the vacancy on the board. I cannot say who Admiral Kimberly's successor would be, because I now have nothing to do with the matter. I have left all official business behind me and Assistant Secretary Hackett ne matter. I have left all official business behind me and Assistant Secretary Hackett is managing the affairs of the Navy Department. If there is a vacancy in the court, filling it is a mere matter of detail anyway. The country seemed well satisfied with the personnel of the court as it was announced. I had hoped that no change would be necessary." change would be necessary.

The detectives of the West Twentieth street police station were busy last night trying to solve the mystery surrounding a shooting which occurred in Edwards' saloon at 282 Seventh avenue. According to what the police could find out the shooting was done by Charles Flynn, who is described as an ex-convict. His victims were two young men, Peter J.

Reagan of 412 West Seventeenth street and George Winfield of 128 West 102d street. Reagan and Winfield were sitting in the back room at a table drinking beer. At a table near them sat a woman who said she was Tesaie Stewart of 217 West Twenty-seventh street. Flynn came in the room and pulled a revolver from his pocket. Reagan's back was toward Flynn.

Dipping Into Box Office Receipts. The Sire brothers, managers of the Cherry Blossom Grove on the roof of the New York Theatre, learned yesterday as they say that they had been robbed of $4,000 of their box office receipts.

For some time the managers had observed that the box office receipts were not in any way commensurate with the number of visitors to the roof. A watch was kept on the box offices and the ticket takers, with the result that an employee was called into Mr. H. B. Sire's private office yesterday, when he is said to have practically confessed that he was in collusion with another to defraud the house. Through his investigation Mr. Sire learned that he had been robbed at the rate of $200 a night by the selling of the same ticket. night by the selling of the same tickets

Mr. Sire refused to discuss the matter last night further than to say that their investigations would not be completed until this morning and that until then no action would be taken. FOLLOWING ALLEGED ATTEMPT TO KILL QUEEN DOWAGER OF PORTUGAL.

Paterson, N. J., Anarchists Deny That He Came From That City - Name Gallietti Not Known There-May Have Nothing to Do With the Reported Attempt at Assessmatten. Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

ZURICH, Switzerland, July 31.-An Anarchist of the name of Galliotti was arrested at Veidikon last night. The authorities had received information about him from Paterson, N. J.

IA despatch sent out on Tuesday from Aix-les-Bains, France, told of an alleged attempt there on the life of Maria Pia. Queen Dowager of Portugal. No details were given When the arrest of Galliotti was announced yesterday the two events were instantly connected, though the reason for doing so is not plain.

PATERSON, N. J., July 31.—The Anarchists in this city were much excited to-day over the report that an attempt had been made on the life of the Queen Dowager of Portugal by a man named Galliotti, who was said to be an Anarchist from Paterson and a friend of Bresci, who killed the Queen's brother, King Humbert of Italy, a year ago.

It was said that Galliotti formerly lived here and that he had worked in the Paragon silk mill, but inquiry fails to show any trace of the man in this city. Mr. Bentley, the superintendent of the Paragon mill, says that no such name appears on the pay roll for years and that he never knew any employee of that name. None of the weavers there can remember any man

The Anarchists say they do not know Galliotti. Pedro Esteve, the editor of La Questione Sociale, says that he does not believe that the man is a Paterson Anarchist and he says that he certainly did not sail with Bresci. Mr. Esteve knows all the Anarchists in Paterson, and he is satisfied that not one has left the city for Europe within the last year. It has not been safe for Anarchists to go to Europe since Bresci assassinated the King.

Mr. Esteve does not even believe that an attempt was made on the life of the Queen Dowager. His theory is that on the anniversary of the death of her brother, Maria Pia withdrew from her usual haunts at Aix-les-Bains to take part in the mourning ceremony. When she was missed from Aix-les-Bains, the story was started, and, of course, the assailant was said to be a friend of Bresci from Paterson.

Benjamin Mazzotta, leader of the "Right of Existence Group," of Anarchists, said to-night: "I do not know Galliotti. That is a new name to me. I know all the Anarchists in Paterson. I lived in West Hoboken two or three years and I never heard that name there either."

A. Botta, who keeps Bartholdi Hall and a café where a dozen Anarchists live says that none of his boarders recognizes the name of Galliotti.

The Anarchists here are apparently honest in their assertions that they know nothing of Galliotti. When Bresci killed the King of Italy a year ago they had no hesitation in telling all they knew about Bresci and his antecedents.

regarding any Anaschists to Europe. He does not know Galliotti and never heard the name before. Mr. Emley expressed the opinion that it was time steps were taken to break up the meetings of the Anarchist group that appears to have found a haven in this city.

There is a story that since the assassination of King Humbert European govern-ments have had detectives here watching the Anarchists and that these detectives sent out the notice about Galliotti.

Chief of Police Graul does not know anything of a man named Galliotti. In regard to the meetings of the Anarchists the chief said: "If these so-called Anarchists commiany overt act or indulge in any action which lays them open to a criminal charge I will act and do it quickly, but as long as they only gather in a hall and make speeches it is a matter in which I am not called upon to interfere."

Ernestina Cravello, the Queen of the Anarchists, left this city to-day to live in New London, Conn., where her brother has been living for years. Her husband, whom she married a few months ago, went with her. They have all got employment in a silk mill there.

"Why don't you come out with us and be a man," Healt said. Todd declared that the unions had ruined him. "Seven years ago I had to leave Ashley & Bailey's mill on account of the union," he said. "At that time I had twenty-two of them arrested and indicted, but they were never tried. I want to know if the union is running this city? If it is, then I had better leave the place."

As soon as the train came to a standstill two of the robbers mounted the engine and placing revolvers at the heads of the engineer and fireman compelled them to uncouple the express and baggage car. Then the engineer was ordered to go ahead about two hundred feet. When go ahead about two hundred feet. When this was done one of the robbers placed a stick of dynamite at the door of the baggage car and lighted the fuse. The explosion blew a big hole in the side and floor of the car. The robbers then compelled the engineer and firemen to get up into the car with them and a search was made for the safe.

All the time the bandits were operating in the baggage car they kept up a constant.

All the time the bandits were operating in the baggage car they kept up a constant firing to keep the crew in subjection and to compel the passengers to remain inside the coaches. Not finding what they sought, one of the robbers said: "What will we do now? The other said: "Let's get out of this." Both leaped to the ground, ran to the side of the track, climbed the fence and were lost in tthe darkness.

While this was going on in the front part of the train the other robbers were keeping watch over the coaches in the rear. They fired frequently, but no one was hurt, the passengers remaining in the coaches and the crew making no sign. Just before the robbers who were with the engineer quit the spot one of them wrenched the engineer's watch from the chain. This was all the property that was taken.

MRS. ALLIEN CAN'T RACE UNDER THER HERE OR IN ENGLAND.

Stable Rancocas Stable. Such was the entry made in the books of the Jockey Club one day last week and the meaning of it is that the right to use the racing colors of the late Pierre Lorillard and the name of his stable has passed for life to the son of the late turfman. It also means that the right to the use of the colors and stable name has passed to the Lorillard family and will remain there, if the family desires, so long as a descendant of the dead turfman lives. The claim for the colors and the name was lodged with the Jockey

Club on behalf of Pierre Lorillard last week by one of the best-known followers of the turf and the claim was allowed. This effectually disposes of the report that Mrs. Lillian Barnes Allien, to whom Mr. Lorillard left Rancocas Farm, at Jobstown, N. J., together with the stock thereon and all his horses in training, had laid claim to the Lori'lard colors and the name, Rancocas Stable, and would race under that name and in those colors. If Mrs. Allien, or Miss Barnes, as she may happen to be, races Mrs. Lorillard's horses her jockeys will have to sport other silk and she may not use the name Rancocas in connection with any venture she may make on the turf. She may breed horses at Rancocas Farm and sell them and she may race the horses of her late benefactor both here and in England, but if the name of the breeding establishment and the racing colors which the late Pierre Lorillard made famous on both sides of the ocean are perpetuated on the turf, it will be by one of the Lorillard blood.

The claim to the right to use the stable name and colors in this country does not, of itself, carry the privilege of using the same stable name and colors in England, but young Mr. Lorillard has already sent his claim to the English Jockey Club, which is considered equivalent to the settlement that the claim will be allowed as soon as received. It may be stated, however, on what seems to be very excellent. town, N. J., together with the stock there-that the claim will be allowed as soon as received. It may be stated, however, on what seems to be very excellent authority, that young Mr. Lorillard has not decided to go in for racing. He has filed his claims to make sure that a stranger to the Lorillard family may not race under the colors or stable name of his late father, either here or in England.

On the same authority it is stated that

On the same authority it is stated that there is little likelihood that Mrs. Allier will come into possession of Rancocas or race the late Mr. Lorillard's horses any-where under any name. The person who gave this information to The Sun said last night:

The reports regarding Mrs. Allien's fortune have been grossly exaggerated. She is a well-to-do woman, but it will take much more money than she commands to maintain Rancocas Farm and the late Mr. Lorillard's racing stables. The Lorillard family is able to maintain both, and, unless negotiations now pending fall through, the farm and the horses will pass into the possession of the Lorillards. Young Pierre Lorillard has not decided yet to go in for racing, but if he does so he has a name and colors under which he may race. That's all there is to it.

Most of the late Pierre Lorillard's all there is to it.

Most of the late Pierre Lorillard's thoroughbreds in training are in England and the English turf authorities are practically agreed that David Garrick, a four-year-old by Hanover out of Peg Worfington, which Mr. Lorillard bought of John E Madden, is the best racehorse in England. Mr. Lorillard shortly before he died said of Garrick that he was the best horse he ever owned except Iroquais.

TRIED TO SET PIERS AFIRE!

Blasing Paper Near Oil House of North Germa Peter Stern, the watchman on the North German Lloyd piers at Hoboken, which were destroyed by fire a year ago last June, discovered a bundle of papers on fire last night on the pier near the oil house between Third and Fourth streets. In the oil house were seven barrels of oil and some lumber. The tops were off the oil

The fire was within a foot of the oil house Hein stamped it out and then made a re port to Joseph McNeil, who has charge the piers at night. He told Acting Chief of Police Hayden of the fire and intimated that it might have been the work of dock builders who went on strike a week ago last Monday. He admitted he had no ground for this suspicion except that the watchman told him that severa of the strikers were seen loitering around the oil house early in the evening. The strikers were employed by Staats Brothers and have not caused any trouble since they quit work.

MAN MULCARE ARRESTED. The Detective Sars He Shot in Self-Dete

the Aggressor, and Says That He Sat Into a

Doorstop Growler Party -His Good Record.

Detective William Mulcare reported to Capt. Titus of the Detective Bureau at rolicall at Police Headquarters at 8 o'clock resterday morning that he had been in a fight at Charles and West streets at midnight and had shot a man. Mulcare exnibited a wound on the nose and a cut on the cheek, which he said he had received in the fight. He said that three men, who were with two women, had attacked him and that he had shot one of the men after he had been hit on the nose with a brick

Capt. Titus began an investigation, after reporting Mulcare's story to Commissioner Murphy. He learned from the norning reports that Joseph Buckley, a longshoreman, was in St. Vincent's Hoepital with a bullet wound in his groin. He had been taken from the street corner at midnight. Col. Murphy ordered that Mulcare be deprived of his shield and suspended. After that Mulcare went to the Charles street station and gave himself u to Capt. Martens.

Buckley died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon after making a statement to Coroner Hart accusing Mulcare. Mulcare was put under arrest and remained at the station until 8 P. M. Then he was sent in custody of a policeman to St. Vincent's Hospital. out was not taken there direct. It was said that he had a fractured nose, a lacerated cheek and concussion of the brain. He will be arraigned before Coroner Hart this morning. Mulcare's story of the shooting does not agree with Buckley's. There have been a number of hold-ups along the lower West Side and Capt. Titus detailed Mulcare to watch the piers and to look out for pick-pockets on the cars. Mulcare told Capt. Titus that shortly before midnight Tuesday morning he saw three men and two women drinking beer from a can at Charles and West streets. He told them to move on and one of the men told him to mind his own business. Some words followed and then the three men attacked him. He grabbed the ringleader, who hit him with a brickbat and he went down. He was jumped on and kicked, he said, but still clung to the man he had grabbed. He felt he was losing his senses and he drew his revolver and fired at the ringleader.

A policeman found Buckley shot and sent him to the hospital. Then the precinct detectives were called out of bed and sent out to find Buckley's assailant. All they could learn in the neighborhood was that the man who had shot Buckley was seen running through West Tenth street. On suspicion the detectives said that with West Side and Capt. Titus detailed Mulcare seen running through West Tenth street. On suspicion the detectives arrested two men who were released.

To Coroner Hart Buckley said that with two men, named Cudahy and Burke, and two women, he was sitting on a stoop at the corner of Perry and West Tenth streets, when a man stopped in frog of them.

"I cover saw him before," said Buckey, but he stared at us so hard and so long that "I said: You've looked at us long enough; you might as well join us. He said, All right, and came over and sat down. Somebody proposed that we get some beer and somebody got a can and filled it. We had a drink and he made an insulting toast to one of the women. I said: That's at him, hitting him on the nose. He drew a revolver and fired at me. I ran to a saloon and he followed me. In the saloon he grabbed me again and my two friends interfered and defended me. After that interfered and defended me. After that I fainted, but I heard that the bartender put everybody out of the saloon and the man who shot me ran away."

Buckley up to a few months ago was regularly employed as a longshoreman. He lost his job and hadn't done much since.

Mulcare's record as a policeman has been a good one. He was appointed in 1885 and has been in the Detective Bureau about six years. He was once a member of the mounted squad and stopped several runaways. He is an expert oarsman and has saved several persons from drowning. He got honorable mention not long ago.

Capt. Titus said last night that he had not received a full report of the case, mainly not received a full report of the case, mainly because Mulcare was still in a dazed con-dition, but he had no doubt that Mulcare was doing his duty when the shooting was doing his duty when the shooting occurred

"Mulcare," said Capt. Titus, "is now in St. Vincent's Hospital with a compound fracture of the nose. He has had several hemorrhages and is too weak to tell his story. My men have discovered a man who says he saw Mulcare struck in the head with a bottle. Mulcare was assigned to look after the crosstown cars and he to look after the crosstown cars and he doubtless went over there on his work. I hear that he hasn't drunk a drop for three years. He is an expert oarsman and athlete and is a member of the Dauntless Rowing Club. Up in the Harlem River only a few
